PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Fellow CPMS members, I am honoured to accept the role as President and be able to serve the society for the next two years. I have not had the pleasure of meeting all the CPMS members, but I have met several CPMS members over the years. The society is a group of great people, in which I have built many lasting friendships.

Being a successful leader is all about growing others. It's about making the people you work with smarter, bigger, and bolder. I would like to thank Dr Michael Zigler for the leadership he has provided the CPMS, and guidance he has offered me, for the past 2 year term.

In 2014 at the Royal Canadian Numismatic Association convention in Toronto, Ontario Canada, the CPMS will be celebrating its 50th Anniversary. It is approaching quickly, and we would like all members to celebrate the organization in 2014 at the RCNA in Toronto. This will be a time to reflect on what joys the society has provided to you. I am asking members to step forward and offer up memories, photos, etc. of the society. We would also like Canadian Paper Money experts to volunteer time and prepare talks on their areas of expertise, and incorporated the CPMS into the RCNA's educational symposiums, to celebrate the CPMS 50 years.

Members, now is the time to think about what you want out of the Canadian Paper Money Society. Now is also the time to look at ourselves and ask, "what can I do for the Society to make it better?" As members, it is our responsibility to make sure our organization is a success. The society is full of passionate collectors, researchers and members full of great information, just waiting to be shared with others. It is important that members volunteer their talents, expertise and time to grow the success of our world-class organization.

Our legacy is not just our past; it is the journey of our present and into our future. What we decide to do with the Society is up to you, and I want to make it awesome. "The journey of a thousand miles begins with one step"—Lou-tzu "And with each step forward, things are better than they were one step ago." With our common interests in Canadian bank notes and banking, let us show Canada and the world that Canadian Paper Money Society is the best of the best.

Numismatically yours,
Jared Stapleton CPMS President

JEFFREY HOARE AUCTIONS INC.

Canada's Foremost Numismatic And Military Auctioneer

The most knowledgeable collectors and dealers have always bought most of their coins and paper money at auction. The advantage of selling by auction is that the middleman in the transaction works for you, acting as your agent and selling directly to more prospective buyers than you alone could reach, and who compete to buy your material at higher prices.

Presentation and promotion are important to the success of any auction. We use many photographs and provide detailed descriptions in the most professionally produced catalogue in Canada. Our catalogues are shipped worldwide and lots are on view to prospective buyers well in advance of the auction. Our commission rate is only 15%.

We have been in the numismatic business since 1969 and our auctions started in 1986 and have rapidly grown.

Why choose JEFFREY HOARE AUCTIONS INC.? Simply stated, we provide the best opportunity to obtain the highest prices for your coins or currency. We have the expertise to catalogue and sell your single rarity or entire collection effectively.

Your collection will receive the attention it deserves at JEFFREY HOARE AUCTIONS INC. We conduct a minimum of three sales per year. For consigning or subscription information please contact Wendy Hoare.

Banks, Banking and Bank Notes In Manitoba

by Jim Astwood, FCNRS

Prepared for the R.C.N.A. Educational Symposium in Winnipeg, 24 July 2013

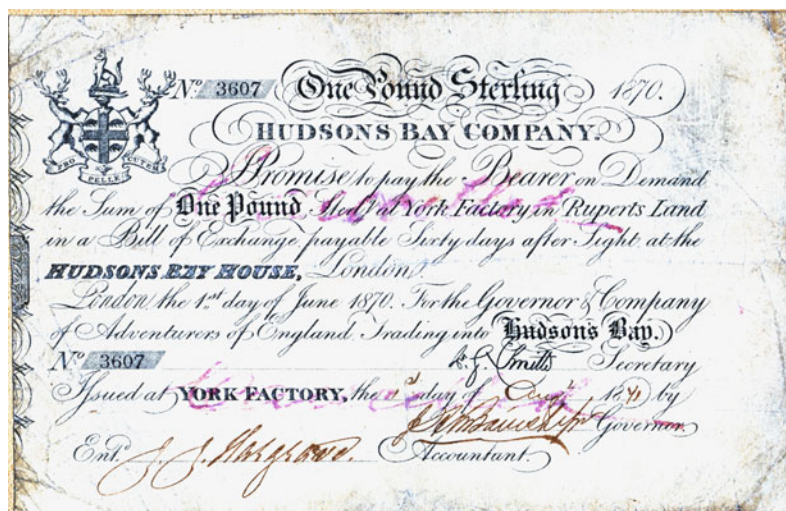

The history of banking in Manitoba covers a relatively short period of time. Up until Manitoba joined Confederation in 1870, it was ruled by the Hudson's Bay Company, and the only money in circulation consisted of notes issued by them and a mixture of British and American coinage. When the Hudson's Bay Company relinquished control they redeemed their outstanding notes, and these were to be replaced by Canadian currency.

Because the Riel rebellion had only just recently ended, the government was reluctant to send much money, because of uncertainty whether or not there was still some danger, as they did not want it captured by any remnants of the rebellion. As a result they asked the Hudson's Bay Company to pay the troops that had been sent out, which they did with their own notes.

1870 £1 Promissory Note, Hudson's Bay Company, Fort Garry

The HBC notes were all supposed to have been withdrawn in 1870 but I have one example of a one pound note dated 1871. This is likely one of the notes issued to pay the troops. The government did send a supply of one and two dollar notes, but as a precaution they were stamped in Winnipeg with the word "MANITOBA," presumably so they could refuse them if they fell into the wrong hands. These overprinted notes are very rare, with only three ones and two twos known to have survived.

1871 £1 Note, Hudson's Bay Company, York Factory

The first Assistant Receiver General for Manitoba was Gilbert McMicken, who was appointed in 1871. He also held the position of Dominion Lands Agent, Dominion Auditor and Manager of the Dominion Government Savings Bank. McMicken was born in Scotland but immigrated to Canada and became involved in politics in Ontario before he moved west in 1871. His son, Alexander McMicken, came with him and after a short stint at the Government Savings Bank he started his own private bank. A few cheques drawn on his bank have survived.

The Dominion Government never issued bank notes payable at Winnipeg such as the ones for Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, St. John and Victoria, although there were apparently 150 notes of the 1871 $500 and $1000 issue printed but none have survived. The finance department did send a supply of the 1878 issue to Winnipeg to be signed by the Assistant Receiver General in Winnipeg but these had the “Payable at Toronto” back. These were signed by Henry Mowatt Drummond, who succeeded Gilbert McMicken in 1878. Drummond obviously did not have access to a proper cutting machine and the notes are poorly cut with scissors.

1878 $2 Dominion Note signed by H. M. Drummond, A.R.G. at Winnipeg, at left

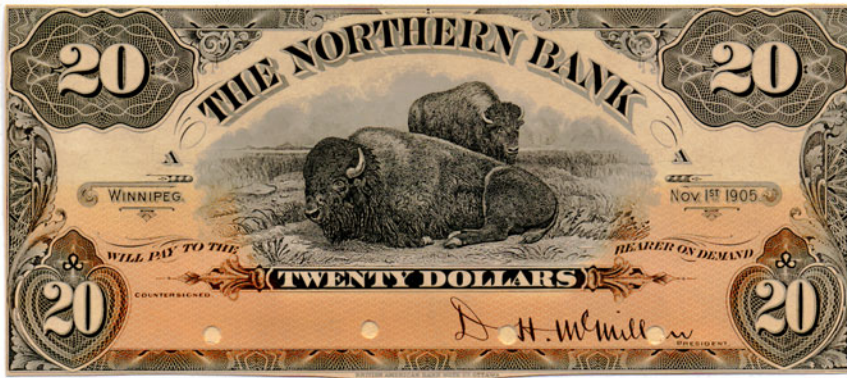

There were no chartered banks headquartered in Winnipeg in the 1870’s although there were several private bankers, the most notable of which was Alloway & Champion. They had several branches in Winnipeg and one in Portage La Prairie, and lasted until 1921 when they were taken over by the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Alloway reportedly made a lot of his money trading in government land scrip. Land scrip entitled the bearer to purchase Crown lands and was issued in various denominations from $20 to $500. They were given to Métis to settle land claims and apparently Alloway and others would buy them up for a bottle of whiskey or some other trinket. Hence the recent claims by Métis that they were cheated out of their land.

There were several attempts to start a chartered bank in Winnipeg. The Bank of Manitoba was chartered in 1872 but never got off the ground. Similarly, there was the North Western Bank incorporated in 1882 with Winnipeg as its head office. The following year it moved its head office to Toronto and changed its name to The British Canadian Bank. It never operated but there are proofs of $5 and $10 notes so they must have come close. There were three attempts to start a Bank of Winnipeg, one in 1884, and again in 1903 and 1908, and another Manitoba Bank in 1882. None of these ever went into business. Then there was the Colonial Bank of Canada, which was incorporated in 1906 and then tried to change its name to the National Bank of Canada. It tried to raise money from small shareholders in western Canada but it too failed to get off the ground, and gave up in 1907.

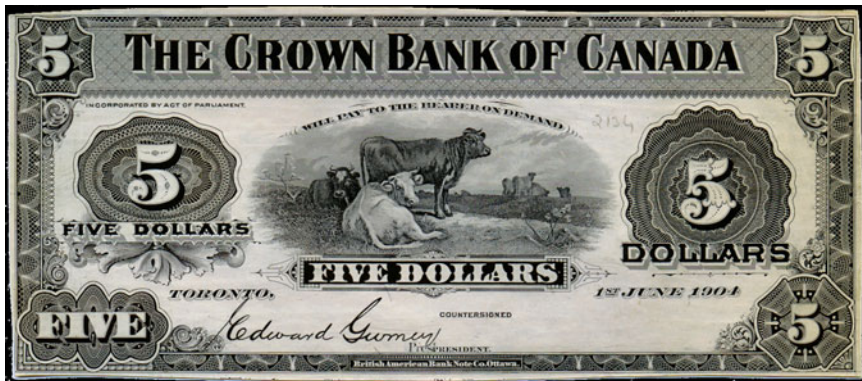

The first successful chartered bank in Winnipeg was the Commercial Bank of Manitoba, which grew out of the private bank of McArthur, Boyle and Campbell. They were incorporated in 1885 and had two note issues, one in 1885 and another in 1891. Unfortunately, like many banks at the time, they were heavily invested in real estate and when the market collapsed they were in trouble. They went into receivership in 1893. However, the liquidator was very patient and took almost ten years to wind up the bank’s affairs, eventually realizing a decent price for most of the real estate. As a result, all of the bank’s creditors were paid. Virtually all of the notes were redeemed, with less than $6000 of the bank’s notes not accounted for and issued notes are virtually non-existent. I know of only one uncanceled issued note in private hands although there are cancelled notes in the National Currency Collection.

Northern Bank $20 1905, face proof

Crown Bank of Canada $5 1904

Northern Crown Bank $20 1908

Northern Bank model back 1908

The next bank to have any success was the Northern Bank, which went into business in 1905. It developed a network of branches across the west and was well capitalized. In 1908 it absorbed the struggling Crown Bank of Canada, which was headquartered in Toronto and changed its name to the Northern Crown Bank. Notes issued by the Crown Bank are extremely rare. The CPMS Note Registry reports that there are only six $5 notes known, all in private hands. The Northern Bank issued bank notes in 1905 but because of the change of name in 1908 these were mostly redeemed and are rare today, with only about $3,000 shown as still outstanding. Only one $5 note and one $10 note are known to be in private hands. They were apparently planning another Northern Bank issue in 1908 as there are models in existence for a new back produced by the American Bank Note Company. In 1908 and again in 1914 notes were issued bearing the Northern Crown name and these, although rare in top condition, turn up from time to time. There are still approximately $37,000 of their notes outstanding. The Northern Crown Bank was acquired by the Royal Bank of Canada in 1918 and had 111 branches at the time.

The largest bank to be headquartered in Winnipeg was the Union Bank of Canada, which transplanted itself from Quebec City in 1912. It was originally incorporated provincially as The Union Bank of Lower Canada in 1865. It changed its name to the Union Bank of Canada in 1886. According to Bob Graham it was the first chartered bank to open a branch in Alberta, and at its peak it had 329 branches, mostly in western Canada. It was a prolific note issuer and its 1907 and 1912 issues with the farming scene on the $5 and the cowboys on the $10 are very popular with collectors. There are a number of signature and printing varieties of each denomination. In 1921 the bank changed the design of their notes to feature bank executives. These proved to be unpopular and they reissued the 1912 notes but bearing the signatures of the new General Manager, J. W. Hamilton, and W. R. Allan as president. These bear the imprint of the Canadian Bank Note Company whereas the previous issue is from the American Bank Note Co. The bank was apparently going to issue them bearing the date 1924 as there is a black and white proof with this date in the National Currency Collection. However, these were never printed as the bank was acquired by the Royal Bank of Canada in 1925 and discussions must have been going on in 1924.

The Union Bank Tower, which was the first steel frame “skyscraper” in western Canada, was turned into the Royal Bank’s main branch in Winnipeg. The Royal Bank moved to new headquarters at Portage & Main and the building now houses a portion of Red River Community College.

The last attempt to headquarter a bank in Winnipeg was 1966, when Jimmy Coyne, recently ousted Governor of the Bank of Canada, incorporated The Bank of Western Canada. He was backed by a number of local investors but because of infighting among the directors as to the direction the bank should take, Coyne resigned, and without him the bank never got off the ground. No one has tried to start a bank in Winnipeg since.

A Puzzling Note From The Bank Of Western Canada

by R. J. Graham, FCNRS

The Bank of Western Canada 1859 $2 shown here was purchased in the Heritage Auction in September 2012. No fewer than three additions were overprinted or stamped on the note after it was printed.

The most striking overprint is OCT., applied vertically on the face, at the left. I do not recall seeing such an overprint previously. The purpose of overprinting with the abbreviation for a month escapes me completely. But the mystery deepens. There is some very curious work on the T of TWO DOLLARS, which is even more challenging to explain. Finally, there is stamped on the back, a black ornate symbol in the form of the letter “J,” just to the right of the OWT protector.

Were all or any of these marks applied for some useful purpose? Any plausible explanation would be very welcome.

Notes Of The Gore Bank

by R. J. Graham, FCNRS

An impressive amount of information on the Gore Bank has already been published in readily accessible sources. A richly detailed history of the bank, well illustrated with images of notes, head office building, portraits of the bank's officers—and the bank's keys and blunderbuss, of all things—can be found in Volume 1 of The History of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, by Victor Ross (1920). Ross devotes a total of almost a hundred pages to the Gore Bank, including a brief discussion of the notes and a statistical description of the Gore District in 1836. C. F. E. Carpenter presented an outline of the bank's history in the C. P. M. Journal for January 1966. I wrote an article entitled "The Decline of the Gore Bank," which dealt with the bank's painful final years; it was published in the Spring 1992 issue of our Journal. My article, "Gleanings from the Gore Bank Note Register," published in the 2001 Annual Journal, recorded details of note printing, numbering, signing and ultimate destruction.

About all that remains is to give the collecting community a reasonably clear picture of the availability of Gore Bank notes. It is hoped that this article will supply that need.

Experience will soon convince the interested collector that Gore Bank notes are extremely difficult to acquire. A glance at the listings will reveal that they are quite rare, and a slightly closer look will show that the surviving notes are largely held by institutional collections, making them that much more difficult to obtain. I was fortunate to purchase my small group of notes intact twenty years ago from an accomplished collector and very good friend, who was then in his mid-eighties. I have been unable to add a single note since then.

The surviving notes are recorded below by denomination, subdivided according to whether the date is partially or fully engraved.

FOUR DOLLAR NOTES (GENUINE)

Partially Engraved Date, 1836–1850

Denom.	Date	Sheet Number	Numbering	Grade	Location
$4	1850: 1 Mar.	—/B	manuscript	G-VG	National Currency Collection

Fully Engraved Date, 1850–1856

Denom.	Date	Sheet Number	Numbering	Grade	Location
$4	1852: 2 nd Sept.	57349/B	manuscript	VG-F	National Currency Collection < Torex Sale (March 1974)

The Charlton catalogue listing for a genuine 1852 $4 in Good is tenuously based on a note in the 1971 CNA Sale. Without an image, it was not possible to rule out that the note might be genuine. Upon reflection, this seems highly unlikely. A notation on the back of the note requested that the Toronto branch redeem the note. The Gore Bank had no Toronto branch, so the reference must have been to the successor bank, the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Had the note been redeemed, it would have been cancelled and destroyed, or else deposited in the bank's archival collection. The fact that it was still available in 1971 enables us reasonably to assume that the note was found to be a counterfeit and returned to the owner, unpaid. The number of this note was not provided in the sale catalogue. It may very well be included among the notes listed in the register of counterfeit $4 notes, near the end of this article.

TEN DOLLAR NOTES

Partially Engraved Date, 1836–1850

Denom.	Date	Sheet Number	Numbering	Grade	Location
$10	1836: 16 Nov.	unknown	manuscript		probably institutional collection
$10	1839: 3 Jany.	5570/B	manuscript		Charlton cat. 7 th ed.

Denom.	Date	Sheet Number	Numbering	Grade	Location
$10	1852: 2 nd Sept.	21576/A	manuscript		Illustrated in Ross: vol. I

It seems likely that all ten dollar notes of the Gore Bank are in the archival collections of the chartered banks, especially the CIBC. The National Currency Collection does not have an example, and I cannot recall having ever seen one.

Merchants Bank Of Canada

Note Register

by R. J. Graham, FCNRS

The Merchants Bank of Canada employed many exquisite designs, and their notes are magnificent to behold.

Lists of surviving notes of the 1900 and 1919 issues have already been published in CPMS Newsletters by Harry Eisenhauer, and have been updated in the 2013 Registry. We shall now fill in the remaining twentieth century issues. It must be understood that the notes of the 1906 issue, and to some extent the 1916 issue, are reasonably plentiful and there are likely to be quite a few more notes to be recorded.

BABN ISSUE OF 1906—1907

The 1906 $5 and $10 are the most easily obtainable notes of the Merchants Bank of Canada, but lower grades prevail.

ABN ISSUE OF 1917

The 1917 Merchants Bank notes some of the most difficult of the bank's twentieth century issues to obtain. If signature varieties are taken into account, the challenge becomes significantly greater.

Ferguson Board Appointment Press Release August, 2013

Geoffrey Bell, Chairman of the J. Douglas Ferguson Historical Research Foundation, is pleased to announce that Scott Douglas has been appointed to its Board of Directors.

Douglas has served as president of several Ontario coin clubs and the Buffalo Numismatic Association south of the border. Currently Archivist of the Toronto Coin Club and the Buffalo club, Scott has been a regular contributor to the Royal Canadian Numismatic Association's Canadian Numismatic Journal and numerous other numismatic publications with well written pieces of research.

Douglas is currently President of the Canadian Numismatic Research Society and was responsible for that group's first medal. His 58-page booklet, Early Canadian Numismatists and their Tokens won him the Fred Bowman Literary Award. He was awarded the R.C.N.A. Presidential Plaque in 2008, the Award of Merit by the Ontario Numismatic Association in 2010 and was elected a Fellow of the O.N.A. in 2013.

The J. Douglas Ferguson Historical Research Foundation was established in 1971 as a non-profit organization. It fills a need in Canada for financing research and study and for providing funds for publishing and related activities in the numismatic field. One such project was a $3000 grant to the R.C.N.A. to help upgrade the Journal with colour, etc. The Foundation is an incorporated body and issues tax receipts for financial donations. The Foundation financed the publishing costs of Chris Faulkner's book The Holey Dollars and Dumps of Prince Edward Island. An important initiative of the Foundation is the offer of four $3000 scholarships at four Canadian universities enabling students to study numismatics or related studies. One student at Laval University is doing an archaeological dig at Three Rivers to study early commerce there through the discovery of coins, tokens, etc.

For further information, you are invited to go to the website at <http://www.jdfergusonfoundation.ca> or contact Geoffrey Bell: gbel@nb.sympatico.ca or telephone 506 532-6025.

In the Marketplace—September 2013

By Jared Stapleton

The summer auction secessions have been quiet, but look out, the steam train of fantastic material is hitting the market with back to back fall auctions from Heritage, Geoffrey Bell Auctions and Moore's to highlight a few.

Charlton Press has announced it will be releasing the 8th edition of Canadian Bank Notes in November 2013. With several years passed from the previous issue, collectors are surly anxious to see where prices will settle at in the new edition. I would suspect that the majority of the pricing will go in the direction of an upwards trend, especially for the rare and higher grade notes based on passed marketplace reports.
