LIST No. 33

JANUARY 1984

Happy New Year!

This is my first catalog as a full-time numismatist. It is as varied and as competitive as ever, if not more so! We are pleased to present a good selection of Canadian and world coins, tokens and medals, as well as our ever-popular bulk lots, bullion lines and a selection of military medals. As usual, there are some real "steals" hidden away among the listings, so please look carefully. Look out for me if any of the following shows are in your area in the next few weeks: we will have a table at each and will be glad to meet with you.

I look forward to hearing from you, honoured client, at your convenience.

Miami Beach	Greater Florida International Coin Show, Konover Hotel, January 13-15.
Philadelphia	International Numismatic Society Show, Adam's Mark Hotel, January 19-21.
Vancouver	Vancouver Coin Show, Sheraton Plaza, February 10-12.
Edmonton	Edmonton Coin Show, Capilano Motel, February 17-19.

Understanding the current Canadian Market - a Review

Though our major interest lies in the collection, rather than the appreciation for monetary gain, of Canadian coins, we can't help but gain a good overview of the "market" due to our position in the coin business. As a result, we are frequently asked to provide commentaries on the state of it.

An interesting thing has happened over the last three months. Canadian coins have commenced selling again at a rate which is difficult to keep up with. Rare, pricy pieces have started to move - we owned our Choice BU 1905 50¢ piece for only 10 days before it sold to an anxious buyer. A 1903 Choice BU 5¢ sold for $1900 at the A.N.A. in San Diego, and virtually all the Canadian coins offered in our last auction went for respectable prices. What has happened?

Basically, somebody somewhere decided that Canadian coins had "reached the bottom" somewhere around the ANA in Boston in 1982. At that time, you couldn't give some coins away. Now, you can't buy good material all that easily. Once everyone realized the bottom had been and gone, everyone had to buy again - coins were not going to get any cheaper, and consequently it was no good holding off on one's collection any longer. So things started to move.

As a result, we'd say, Canadian coins' real prices (i.e. those for which coins actually sell for, not necessarily "trends") have moved upwards about 20% during 1983. This bodes well for those who invested in marketable items early in the year, and will help those who "hung on" to pieces bought in the boom at the start of the decade. Shortly, I predict, a good quantity of nice material will start coming back onto the market as sellers gain confidence from the new price levels. I would not be surprised if the new 1984 season (which effectively gets under way mid-March in Eastern Canada) opens up with another immediate gain of 10-15% over this year's closing market.

What about Newfoundland? This is a little-understood market, and there is a generally held view that Nfld coins are overpriced in general. Not so! A small number of Nfld coins are very common, and can be bought at good discounts almost all the time. Some pieces (e.g. 1917 50¢ in VG) are so common that it makes good sense to melt them even though one gets less than half "trends" this way. But many more Newfoundland coins are unbelievably difficult to find in decent condition. This applies to all the Victorian issues to 1890 in EF and better, to some Edward VII issues, and of course to the classic George VI rarity, the 1946c 5¢ silver. These coins have attracted steady prices throughout the now-passed slump.

It is still making good sense to purchase decent, collectible coins in nice condition, and we predict it will not be cheaper to fill holes in one's collection for some time to come (i.e. the next down in the seven-year coin-market cycle, about 1987!).

Your comments on the above would be most welcome

Paul

WHOLESALE CANADIAN

Here's a chance for everyone to make some great savings. Don't miss the great discounts offered on Canadian singles in the first section of this catalog, nor the choice items offered, often at bargain prices, in the extensive "new purchases" section. But here are some Canadian offerings with good quantity discounts, of interest to dealer, collector and investor alike.

FREE COINS

Our offer of "free coins" in our last list was so popular we've decided to continue it for another list. Here's how you get "something for nothing" when ordering. Each coin is marked with an estimated value in brackets. You may request, free of charge, coins from this section to a value of 10% of your completed order. Thus, if your order totals $100, you may order $10 worth of coins from this section free - if your order is $500, you will have $50 coins free from this section. And, as an additional bonus, we will send coins for which no value is listed, on request, free with every order. We will substitute other items of equal value if your first choice is not available.

About VF for type, far superior to state in which these huge coins are usually found, and a fine portrait. Some light red pest on surface, but better than usual. 120.00

ANCIENT ROME

We are very pleased to present a superb example of one of the earliest coinages of Rome!

Aes grave, c.265-242 BC. Sextans, tortoise, rx. wheel of six spokes, no mark of value. Cr.24/7, Syd. 63a, Haebler pl.25, 16. Very Fine. These huge bronze pieces are the predecessors of modern coinage, and it is most unusual to find them in an excellent state of preservation. This example is particularly attractive in light of the full and plainly recognizable tortoise on obverse. 400.00

We are equally pleased to present the following coin of Brutus, assassin of Caesar!

Roman Republic, Denar of Decimus Iunius Brutus Albinus, assassin of Julius Caesar ("Et. tu, Brute?"). Rx. two joined hands, holding caduceus. Obv. Pietas behind head of Piety, S. Postumia-10. Choice VF-XF, quite rare and most attractive 240.00

Roman Provincial

Antoninus Pius, 138-161. Billon tetradrachm, Sear-1220. Bare hd. r., rx. Dikaisyne std. 1., holding scales and cornucopiae. Abt. EF and rare thus, most attractive for a provincial bronze 150.00

BYZANTIUM

Focas, 602-610. S.647 Pentanummia (5 nummia), crude F but quite scarce. Focas was an army captain who rose to become emperor! 32.00

PARTHIA

Silver drachm of Vologases III, 105-147. King with Long Pointed Beard. S.5831, from an excellent recent purchase 80.00

ANCIENT AND MODERN - GOLD

Our recent visit to the New York International Coin Fair, at a time of depressed gold prices, yielded some excellent purchases. We are now pleased to present some of them. For more gold see in the Canadian section later ...

ROME Theodosius II, 402-450. Gold solidus, S.4190, rx. Victory std. I., in ex. CONOB. Virtually UNC, two marks at face slightly detract from what would otherwise be a $2,000 coin! 750.00

Byzantium. Phocas, 602-610. Gold solidus, mint of Constantinople. Rx. Victoria Avgg, S.616/23. Angel stands facing. Nice VF, not scarce but very attractive and a great place to begin an inexpensive ancient gold collection! 300.00

Byzantium, Heraclius, 610-41. Gold solidus, 613-616. Crowned busts of Heraclius and Heraclius Constantine facing, exergual line beneath. Rx. cross on steps, Hahn-8a. Partial weakness in striking, otherwise a strong, fully lustrous EF 380.00

RARE GERMAN OFF-STRIKE IN GOLD

We are tickled pink to be able to present this HAMBURG, 1 Schilling 1790, STRUCK IN GOLD! Not only is this a VERY RARE off-metal strike, but ours is a lovely, lustrous AU. Choice, not to be missed at 600.00

BRITISH GOLD

We really have picked up some lovely British coins for this list. The party is nearly over, as everyone is sure that the pound will decline no or little further. British coins are once again "hot" as an almost sure-fire investment item! Collectors may wish to get in before things move up too far ...

1/3 guinea, 1804. EF, nice, S.3740 Only 180.00
 1/2 guinea, 1787. VF/aVF, nice and attractive. Only 145.00

Special offer on a rare ancient coin

Danubian Cents, imitation silver tetradrachm of Thasos, made in the 1st century B.C. The Danubian Celts attempted to copy the lovely tetradrachm of Thasos, but made a cruder coin which is easily distinguishable. Our example is F-VF, but has a small hole pierced at the top. Would look great in jewellery, or will fill that hole in your collection! Normally selling for $180 plus, our special price for this item $55.00

Straits Settlements Half Dollars

From this increasingly popular oriental state, we have just purchased a hoard of 1920 and 1921 half dollars in original UNC condition. Present catalog value is $12.50 each: our special price for the pair just $14.00

Scarce Parthian Coin

This silver drachm of King Vologases III was made between 105 and 147 AD. It depicts the powerful King with a long, pointed beard. Every representative collection should contain at least one of these distinctive Parthian coins! A lustrous VF example is priced at only $40.00

The new 1983 British Proof Set

The new British Proof set is in a new-look simulated leather case, resembling that used for the Canadian double-dollar set, and can be opened to display your coins. It contains both the new 20 pence and the new 1 pound piece in Proof. We were just lucky enough to purchase 8 sets below the issue price. We can therefore offer them at just $29.00

(We usually stock most dates of British Proof sets - please phone or write for details if you would like to complete your collection).

THE QUEEN'S SOUTH AFRICA MEDAL

Susan and I were recently very proud and very pleased to purchase an extensive collection of military medals. Included were a number of examples of the well-known "Queen's South Africa" medal of 1899-1902, and during our researches we became familiar with much of the charm and history of this medal. We'd like to share some of this with our readers.

Almost everyone who attends coin shows regularly must have at some time seen a Q.S.A. It is an attractive medal, showing on one side a portrait of Queen Victoria, Crowned, with the legend "VICTORIA REGINA ET IMPERATRIX" - Victoria Queen and Empress. On the other side Britannia stands majestically herself, holding a large flag in one hand and in the other a laurel wreath, offered to a party of advancing soldiers. The sea is to be found in the distance, and on it are two warships. The designer was G.W. de Saulles, well known in numismatic circles as a designer of many commonwealth coins, including the obverse of our own Edwardian coinage and that of Newfoundland.

Canadians figure significantly in the history of the QSA. An early striking of the medal with dates, 1899-1900, was issued only to warriors from Lord Strathcona's Horse, a Canadian regiment. They returned to Canada before the war ended, via London, and the early medals were presented by Edward VII to 50 of them.

The remaining QSAs, over 150,000 pieces originally struck, have no dates on the medals themselves. Their most intriguing feature is the various bars issued. In all, 26 different bars were issued for attachment to the QSA. Some are very common, a few scarce. The largest number of bars issued to an army man was nine, and the most decorated sailor had eight bars.

The QSA is very popular with medal collectors. In part, this popularity must be attributed to the immense variety of units and bar-combinations available, though there is the added complement that there exist virtually no deliberate forgeries or concoctions intended to deceive collectors. Though every conceivable error in the arrangement of bars and every type of tampering exists in the series, this was mainly due to misguided efforts on the part of innocent possessors, as the collector value of the QSA has only recently escalated to a level where a profit might be gained by deliberate alteration.

It is relatively easy to find medals with up to six bars, and there are many ways to collect QSAs. A start may be made by putting together a set with no, one, two, three, four, five and six bars. A much more difficult task is to collect medals showing the full range of bars available, for the bars for Defence of Mafeking, Kimberley, and the Wepener and Rhodesia bars, are quite rare. Nevertheless an attractive and varied display will already have been gained by the time the other 23 bars are represented. These are: Cape Colony, Natal, Relief of Mafeking, Talana, Enlandslaagte, Defence of Ladysmith, Belmont, Modder River, Tugela Heights, Relief of Kimberley, Paardeberg, Orange Free State, Relief of Ladysmith, Driefontein, Transvaal, Johannesburg, Laing's Nek, Diamond Hill, Wittebergen, Belfast, South Africa 1901, and South Africa 1902. It may seem strange to have this last bar on a Victoria medal, especially as there is a King's South Africa medal issued by Edward, the monarch in that year. The bar was issued, however, to those who were not entitled to receive the Edward medal, though they had been present at the front in the early part of 1902.

Among the medals we purchased were several interesting specimens. I have always found naval issues particularly interesting, and we were lucky enough to acquire one piece to H.M.S. Gibraltar ($75) (prices shown in brackets are our asking prices for medals described). There is an excellent table of medals and bars awarded to naval personnel in Gordon's British Battles and Medals, prepared by Mr. W.H. Fevyer. In all, 622 unreturned medals were issued to H.M.S. Gibraltar. It would be an interesting task to attempt to assemble a collection of QSAs, one to each recipient vessel. A total of 31 Royal Navy ships would be represented, and the task is by no means impossible.

Many other collectors have interests in particular regiments or areas, and as usual medals to ranking officers command a premium over those to ordinary soldiers. An astounding array of regiments were present in the South African campaign, including many town guards and troops from all over the commonwealth. As examples, we acquired a single-bar medal, Relief of Ladysmith, a scarce medal, to Br. H. Robinson of the Natal Vol. Amb. Co ($110), pieces with three, four and five bars respectively to the Loyal North Lancs Regt ($110), East Surrey Regt ($90) and Royal Irish Rifles ($87). Some regiments of particular interest to enthusiasts from other collecting fields are also contained in the collection, for example to the Railway Pioneer Regiment (3 bars to a Major, $95).

One could go on at some length about this fascinating medal. However, we will be content to direct the reader, further, to the exemplary listing of units, bars and related information contained in Gordon's British Battles and Medals (5th edition by E.C. Joslin, published by Spink). While not inexpensive this book can be ordered through your local library and if you do not already have access to a copy we recommend perusing it.

A REPORT ON AUCTION 9

This report is not intended to comment on the prices attained by specific pieces, for these can be seen from the accompanying prices realized. The intention, rather, is to comment on some general aspects and market features to be gleaned from an overview of the auction.

Canadian Decimal Coinage In general prices were strong and the auction room was packed to standing room only capacity for the floor session of Canadian. We plan to offer much more Canadian decimal coinage in future auctions and would be interested to hear from potential consignors.

Maritime Coinage Newfoundland was weak though the other Maritime provinces showed their usual high level of interest and strong prices.

Canadian Gold Excellent prices were achieved for all Canadian gold coins offered, and we shall be offering several more in our upcoming auction.

Breton Tokens This was by far the best portion of the sale, with the "Virginia Collection" eventually realizing in excess of $14,500. Several new records were set as interest was unabated in this area, and anxious floor bidding drove many prices up to new levels. We shall definitely continue this specialty and expect more new records to be realized in the near future.

Canadian Trade Dollars We offered only rarities in this auction, and prices were excellent. We expect to have several fine consignments in our March auction, and look forward with anticipation to some keen bidding for the rarities there to be offered.

Canadian Medals This was another area of good strength, with both mail and local interest running at high levels. We have been promised a major medal consignment for our upcoming auction.

World Gold Coins This area was patchy, not surprising as gold reached its lowest level for some years the day before the auction and many bullion-based coins became uninteresting. Persons who bought at the auction have done very well as gold climbed rapidly for the next two weeks! Key date and high grade material did well regardless of the weakness of support from the metal market.

Military Medals Consisting of only four lots, this was the single most active area of the auction. All pieces sold at extremely high prices compared to estimate. We shall be expanding our militaria department in deference to this increased interest!

World Crowns This section, containing many high-priced German and continental items, did not do well. This can be attributed largely to decreased interest in these coins as a reflection of the present weakness of European currencies.

World Minor Coins Did well, mainly because of the diversity of material offered. Germanic and northern European coins were, again, rather weak.

English Hammered Coinage This section of nearly 100 lots was equivoical: some lots did very well, others did not sell. Probably we simply offered too many lots of this specialty to expect them all to do well. Interest was, however, keen for many pieces and some of the small groups of pieces offered.

Ancient Coinage Generally did very well. We have been offered an important high-quality consignment for next auction, but would like to have further quality ancients to offer to our clientele.

Odd and Curious Interest as always was at a high level in this area, and particularly those items from developing countries attracted strong mail bids.

Literature All lots sold well with high mail interest. This is characteristic of all our literature offerings. Few others bother!
